Definition of A Game:It is a game of adventure and requires skills of strategy, luck and teamwork. Definition of Adventure:Every player will be given a single card at the start of the game. This card will be the key to their adventure. All characters must be trying to stop another character before they collect all of their cards. On each player turn, the players take turns on the following: 1) Playing a card from their hand - Each player must play a card only if there is at least one card that you want to play instead of a card you have already played. If there are no other cards to play, you can just pass the turn by saying pass. Each player must only play cards that they have the majority of in their hand. If there are still cards that are being played then you can choose to stop the turn or go to the next player. If you choose to stop, you will just play the cards you have in your hand. The majority of a player's cards are determined by the cards they have in their hand as well as the cards that were played while they were in turn order. 2) Adjudicate the Game - Whether you have passed or it is your turn you will be asked to Adjudicate the Game, which means to decide who won the game. If the game is over and you lost, you will be asked to identify who won the game. If you are unsure who won, you can say "It is a tie." This is like saying the game is tied. 3) Go to the Next Player - At the end of the player's turn, they are given a chance to choose to go to the next player or to pass. This is so that they can go on a turn where they can have a better chance to win the game. If there are no more cards to play, you can choose to pass. Definition of Card:Each player has a single card. A card can be anything, ranging from a simple two-dimensional card to very detailed multi-layered cards. Definition of Magic:Magic can take many forms. In DAMAGE, cards and the card stack are considered magic. The cards are memorized by each player and, when the players are ready to play the game, they simply take a card from their hand and they are ready to play the game. (Note: This is not the real game as the decks have been banned). Definition of Slay:Once during the game

Prague Hradec Králové Prague (both Old and New Town) Jihlava Slavonice Staré Město References Back Back Back Back Back Back Back Back Back Back Back Back Back The X route from Prague to Hradec Králové via Jihlava was started in 2004, however it was not implemented until 2011, just months before the opening of the Prague-Hradec Králové railway. Significantly, the new X route is being introduced at the end of the Prague City line rail network, as the surface route route is significantly shorter. The date of the opening of X was rather controversial, and has not yet occurred, with the protest complaints regarding the slow pace of the implementation of the route, and the detrimental impact to the management of Prague's main tourist region being heard. The inbound route Jihlava – Prague Main Station – is segregated from the Prague main line, but the same cannot be said for the outbound line, although this is currently being reconstructed from Dinkelsbühl to Staré Město. The line makes up the Mainline 89, and is a direct connection between Prague and the Czech capital. The segrated line Jihlava – Prague Main Station was due to open in February 2010, but in April that year, it was announced that the connection would be opened in December 2010, due to delays connected with the Tatra TA 810 locomotive, which was delivered a year earlier than required. It now appears that the line will be opened in April. Currently, due to the ongoing reconstruction of the Czech Republic's Mainline 89, the main passenger rail to the Czech Republic lies on the line from Hamburg via Berlin. This is in sharp contrast to the original German
