Q: How to handle xml encoding for POST Hello guys i have a html form, that send data to server. I'm using XMLHttpRequest to send data. I need to encode data to UTF-8. I have written in PHP the function for that, and its working perfect. Then i tried to use in AngularJS, something similar to this : return { responseText: " }; The problem is that i have to encode data to utf-8. In the function above it's not working, what i have to change in that function in order to make it work in AngularJS (without encoding)? A: By using "" you are telling angular to send a response with no content, which will render a blank screen. Instead, I think it's better to have a response with encoded content, which you can use a library like iconv to do return { responseText: iconv('UTF-8', 'UTF-8', $string); } /* * Copyright (c) 2013, 2015, Oracle and/or its affiliates.
