About The automotive culture has been my passion and obsession since I was 5 years old, since I discovered my Dad's station wagon in the garage. Just like many of you, I started off as a typical kid, racing go-karts, skateboarding, and playing video games, all the while listening to "Coffee Break", "Smooth" and "Donna Summer" (sometimes more than once). As I grew older, my passions turned into Work/Life balance, the beautiful blue-blooded AF 4x4 community, and how I could make a living doing what I loved. This legacy of passion and love has been the driving force behind MX4x4 Magazine since its inception. As an engineer, an autobody shop owner, and a UTV owner, I've been a racers, builder, journalist, and eventually a publisher. MX4x4 Magazine remains my life-long passion and dream, so I've decided to pass this legacy onto those who will join me in bringing the experience to the next generation. I want to make life better for all of you out there and with my engineering background, my advice is to enjoy the cars you build, and build the car you want. With that said, join us in making a difference by sharing your passion for off-road and drive safely. Welcome and Best Wishes! Warmest Regards, Phil Olguin Editor-in-ChiefDon't Fight Your New Job, In The End You Lose I'm coming up on six months at my current job, and in that time I've seen quite a few things that I'm glad to be getting out of my system. Such as leaving the office before 8:30p.m. some days, and working under very short deadline. Telling my boss to piss off,
